

HARTLEY, William (1692?-1759) 2X

William Hartley was born about the year 1692 near Broughton, Lancashire, and brought up in the Church of England. He became increasingly dissatisfied with the forms of worship and about his twenty first year joined Friends. He received the gift of Ministry about his sixty second year, and was especially concerned with the visitation of Friends' families.

"His Ministry being accompanied with a divine Authority (though he was mostly short) his Labour of Love generally tended to the Comfort and Edification of the Hearers."

He died 3 February 1759, aged about sixty seven years, and was interred in Friends Burying Ground at Crook, Westmorland.

HARROD, James Tyler (1870-1954)

James T. Harrod was born of a Quaker family on the 19 January 1870 (1) and was educated at Saffron Walden. A scholar under the Flounders Bequest at Dalton Hall, Manchester, he took a London degree, and then entered upon 40 years of school-mastering at Saffron Walden, at Sidcot, Wigton and Bootham, becoming in 1906, the Headmaster of Sibford School. The same year he married Mabel Kitching (1871-1942, qv) (2): there were three children (3).

During the 24 years James Harrod spent at Sibford, the school acquired its name as a pioneer in education. Under his guidance, the academic was merged into a wider conception of education, and co-education took on a fuller meaning (4).

After his retirement (5), he and his wife Mabel lived for eight years in Birmingham and in 1938 they removed to Godalming. He was active as an Elder of Godalming Meeting, as a member of the Meeting for Sufferings, an ardent Esperantist, for many years a committee member of the local branch of the League of Nations Union and United Nations Association, and in many other spheres. He was Correspondent to the Managers of Bootham School. He was always so much more than a Schoolmaster: he was a teacher whose mind was open to the light. He spoke frequently in Meeting, being especially fond of the synoptic gospels and the book of Jonah.

He died on 1 October 1954 aged 84 years.

HARROD, Mabel (1841-1942) born Kitching

Mabel Harrod was the daughter of William and Louisa Kitching, and was born on 21 July 1871.

She was educated at Ackworth School and trained for teaching at The Mount School, and then at Aberystwyth College, where she gained the London B.A. She taught for a few years in Welsh Schools, and became Head Mistress of Sidcot in 1903. On her marriage three years later she removed to Sibford School.

She took a keen interest in the League of Nations, helping to form a branch of the Union in the school in 1921, and in 1930 she became Lecturer to Birmingham Schools on social and economic work of the League of Nations. This work soon spread into other counties, and made contacts with Women's Institutes and other social organizations.

Ultimately she had to leave Birmingham because of excessive demands on her time and energy, and went to live at Godalming. Here her influence, both in Meeting and in the town, was great; she gave help to the Women's Temperance Association, to the Salvation Army with which she had family connections, and to other social organizations.

She took a leading part in the local Meeting, of which she was for a time Clerk.

She died on 2 November 1942.

HART, Ann (1670/1-1757) born Selwood

Ann Selwood was educated as a Baptist until the age of 13, when on the closing of all Dissenting Meetings, she attended 'the publick Worship' until the 'Deadness and Formality thereof' dissatisfied her, and on observing that Friends kept up their Meetings in spite of persecution she joined with them, and in due course received a gift in the Ministry.

On 16.i[March] 1696 she married Thomas Hart (1). She died 22 March 1757 aged about 86 years.

HARTAS, Annis (1823?-1866) born Adair

Annis Adair, the daughter of John Adair, was born about the year 1823(1). She went through a period of religious difficulty in her youth, but she became convinced of the truth of the principles held by Friends and was received into membership of the Society before she was twenty one.

She was married in 1849 to Thomas Hartas (1824-1907 qv), a draper of Mansfield in Nottinghamshire and there were five children(2). At the time of her marriage she was living in Cockermouth. She was an affectionate daughter, a loving wife and a tender mother, but she had a hasty temper, which she controlled by the grace of God. She was compassionate towards those in affliction and the poor especially awoke her sympathy.

Annis Hartas of Mansfield died very suddenly on 2 October 1866, at the age of forty three(3).

HARTAS, George (1757-1835)

George Hartas, the son of William and Mary Hartas of Danby in Yorkshire, was born there on 6 July 1757(1). Like his father he became a yeoman(2) and in 1783 he was married to Rose Coning(3); there were ten children(4).

His domestic arrangements were simple, as befitted a plain Friend and he was able by careful management of his affairs to help both families and individuals in poor circumstances. His solicitude for the best interests of his own family and of young people generally was a marked feature of his character. He was a man of peace and was frequently and successfully employed amongst his neighbours in settling disputes.

When through old age and infirmity his hold on temporal things grew weaker, the inward peace and quietness of his mind increased, particularly for the last three or four years of his life, when he was quite blind. George Hartas of Danby Dale in Yorkshire died on 14 March 1835, at the age of seventy seven(5).

HARTLAND, Alfred Harford (1817- )

Alfred Harford Hartland was born on 17 September 1817, in All Saints parish, Evesham, Worcestershire, the only son of Nathaniel Hartland (1791-1866 qv) and his first wife Ann Summers Hartland (1793-1818 qv, born Harford) (1).

By the time of his marriage in 1848, his father had left the Society of Friends for about a decade. Like his father, Alfred Harford Hartland had by then become a banker at Evesham (presumably with the Gloucestershire Bank, of which his father was by then managing director). On 9 November 1848, at St Mary's Church, Charlton Kings, near Cheltenham, Gloucestershire, he married Sarah Hannah Meall; two children of the marriage are recorded.(2)

The date of his death is not (1981) traced (3).

- 2 Sandys B. Foster, The pedigree of Wilson of High Wray and Kendal, 2nd ed., privately printed, 1890, p 190, where Sarah Hannah Meall is described as daughter of colonel William Meall, B[engal] N[ative] I[nfantry], and two children of the marriage (Alfred, born 4 August 1849; and Edith, died young) are given. Mary Paget of Charlton Kings (Library correspondence, September 1981) states that the couple were described as Alfred Harford Hartland, bachelor of full age, banker of Evesham, son of Nathaniel Hartland, banker; and Sarah Hannah Meall, spinster, aged nineteen, of Charlton Kings, daughter of colonel William Meall. Sarah Hannah Meall was born on 10 November 1828. E. Armitage, 'The Hartland family of Oatlands', Charlton Kings Local History Society research bulletin no 5 (Spring 1981), pp 56-62, summarizes Nathaniel Hartland's will (Gloucestershire R.O. Ashley Manor will book no 2 pg. 473), which appears to have left only £3000 to Alfred Harford Hartland, and £1000 to his son Alfred at the age of 21, most of the real and personal estate going to the children of Nathaniel Hartland's second marriage. By this time Alfred Harford Hartland was presumably established in life.
- 3 His death is not traced in Digest of Deaths, and is not given in Foster, p 190, from which it appears likely that he was still alive in 1890.

HARTLAND, Ann Summers (1793-1818) born Harford

Ann Summers Harford was born on 20 December 1793 at Nant-y-Glo Iron Works, Aberystruth, Monmouthshire, the daughter of Richard Summers (1763-1837) and Jane Lloyd Harford (1772?-1841 qv, born Perkins) (1). In 1816 she married Nathaniel Hartland (1791-1866 qv) as his first wife (2). One child of the marriage, Alfred Harford Hartland (1817- qv) is recorded (3).

Ann Summers Hartland died on 20 August 1818, at Evesham, aged 24 (4).

HARTLAND, Eliza (1802-1877) born Dixon

Eliza Dixon was born on 23 June 1802 in the parish of St Margarets, Kings Lynn, Norfolk, the daughter of Thomas (1770-1833 qv) and Sarah Dixon (1773?-1836 born Carby) of Kings Lynn (1).

In 1825 she married, as his second wife, Nathaniel Hartland (1791-1866 qv), an Evesham banker; there were at least six children of this marriage (2). In the late 1830s the family moved from Evesham to Charlton Kings, near Cheltenham, Gloucestershire and left the Society of Friends. After her husband's death she inherited his estate, The Oaklands, at Charlton Kings, for her lifetime. She died on 10 December 1877, and was buried at St Mary's Church, Charlton Kings. (3)

HARTLAND, Nathaniel (1754?-1830)

Nathaniel Hartland was born about 1754, the son of William (1712-1766 qv) and Sarah Hartland (1718?-1782 qv born ) of Tewkesbury, Gloucester-shire (1). He had become a tanner at Tewkesbury, like his father, by the time of his first marriage, to Martha (1755-1797 qv) Allis in 1720. Eight children of this marriage are recorded. (2)

He served as a representative for Gloucester & Wilts QM to London YM in 1799, 1803, 1805, 1812 and 1821 (3).

In 1805 he married as his second wife Rebecca (1750-1837 qv) Wilkins; no children of this marriage are recorded (4). By the time of his death in 1830 he had become established as a banker at Tewkesbury (5). He died on 4 or 5 August 1830 and was buried at Tewkesbury (6).

REFERENCES & NOTES

- 1 His birth has not been traced in Gloucester & Wilts QM, Hereford Worcester & Wales QM, Bristol & Somerset QM, Warwick Leicester & Rutland QM or Cheshire & Staffs QM Births Digests; his age at death is given as 76; his parents are given at his marriages.
- 2 Martha Allis was a member of Southwark MM; when the couple appeared before the London Two Weeks Meeting to proceed to marriage they were described in the minutes (vol 9 (1765-1780) p 502) as Nathaniel Hartland of Tewkesbury, tanner, son of William Hartland of the same place and trade, deceased, and Sarah his wife him surviving; and Martha Allis, daughter of John Allis of St John's parish, Southwark, brewer, and his wife Anna. The marriage took place at Horsleydown on 18 April 1780 (London & Middlesex QM Marriages Digest). The children are given as follows in Gloucester & Wilts QM Births, Marriages and Burials Digests:

John Allis	qv	b 8 Oct 1781

- 3 YM representatives 1668-1861, typescript, LSF; it seems likely that the Nathaniel Hartland who served as a representative for Hereford Worcester & Wales QM at London YM 1819 was his son, who was living at Evesham.
- 4 Gloucester & Wilts QM Marriages Digest, where Nathaniel Hartland is described as a tanner of Tewkesbury, son of William and Sarah Hartland of Tewkesbury, and Rebecca Wilkins as daughter of Henry and Mary Wilkins of Cirencester, Gloucestershire. The marriage took place on 15 January 1805 at Cheltenham, Gloucestershire. No children have been traced in Gloucester & Wilts QM Births Digest.

The bank had to suspend business for two months in the great crisis of 1825, but paid 20s in the pound and got going again as Hartland, Prior, Proctor & Easthope, confining its operations to Evesham, Cheltenham and Tewkesbury. It would appear that John Allis Hartland, the eldest son, took over the tanning business, while the second surviving son, Nathaniel, went into the bank, which merged with the Gloucestershire Bank in 1831.
- 6 Gloucester & Wilts QM Burials Digest, which describes him as a banker of Tewkesbury, aged 76, and gives his date of death as 5 August; the Annual monitor 1831 p 16 gives his date of death as 4 August, aged 76.

HARTLAND, Nathaniel (1791-1866)

Nathaniel Hartland was born on 28 April 1791, at Tewkesbury, Gloucestershire, the son of Nathaniel (1754?-1830 qv) and Martha Hartland (1755-1797 qv born Allis) of Tewkesbury (1). He followed his father into the family bank (centred on Evesham, Worcestershire, and Cheltenham and Tewkesbury, Gloucestershire) as a boy; when in 1831 (as Hartland, Prior, Proctor & Easthope) it merged into the Gloucestershire Bank, he became a director of the latter, in 1835 its general superintendent and in the 1840s managing director (2).

In 1816 he married as his first wife Ann Summers (1793-1818 qv) Harford (3); there was one child of the marriage (4). He married as his second wife, in 1825, Eliza (1802-1877 qv) Dixon, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Dixon (1770-1833 qv), a partner in the bank of Gales, Dixon & Massey of Kings Lynn, Norfolk (5). There were at least six children of this marriage (6).

In the late 1830s the family moved from Evesham to The Oatlands, an estate Nathaniel Hartland had purchased at Charlton Kings, near Cheltenham, the Gloucestershire Bank's centre of gravity; at about the same time he left the Society of Friends (7). He died on 8 May 1866, and was buried at St Mary's Church, Charlton Kings (8).

HARTLAND, Rebecca (1750-1837) born Wilkins

Rebecca Wilkins was born on 4.v.[July] 1750, the daughter of Henry and Mary Wilkins of Nailsworth, Gloucestershire (1). On 15 January 1805 she married, at Cheltenham, Gloucestershire, as his second wife, Nathaniel Hartland (1754?-1830 qv) of Tewkesbury, Gloucestershire; no children of the marriage are recorded (2).

Rebecca Hartland died on 6 February 1837, aged 87, and was buried at Tewkesbury (3).

HARTLAND, Sarah (1718?-1782) born

Sarah, the second wife of William Hartland (1712-1766 qv) of Tewkesbury, Gloucestershire, was born about 1718 (1). She married William Hartland at some time between 1747 and 1754 (2). She died on 5 September 1782, and was buried at Tewkesbury (3).

REFERENCES & NOTES

- 1 Her parentage is not at present traced, but her age at death is given in Gloucester & Wilts QM Burials Digest as about 64.
- 2 No record of the marriage has been traced in Gloucester & Wilts QM, Hereford Worcester & Wales QM, Bristol & Somerset QM, Warwick Leicester & Rutland QM or Cheshire & Staffs QM Marriages Digests; no record of children of this marriage have been traced in Gloucester & Wilts QM Births Digest. However, at the marriage of Nathaniel Hartland (1754?-1830 qv) he was described as the son of William and Sarah Hartland of Tewkesbury, and by his age at death must have been born about 1754; William Hartland's first wife, Elizabeth, cannot have died earlier than December 1746.

HARTLAND, William (1712-1766)

William Hartland was born on 29.x.[December] 1712, the eldest son of William (1685?-1750 ) and Sarah Hartland ( -1766 born Pumphrey) (1). He was living at Tewkesbury at the time of his first marriage, to Elizabeth (1715-1748? qv) Oliver; two children of this marriage are recorded (2). He married as his second wife Sarah (1718?-1782 qv) there was at least one child of this marriage, Nathaniel (1754?-1830 qv) (3). William Hartland worked as a tanner, at Tewkesbury; he died on 3 July 1766, and was buried at Tewkesbury (4).

REFERENCES & NOTES

- 1 Gloucester & Wilts QM Births Digest, which gives neither the place of birth nor any description of his father. However, children of William Hartland senior dying in the 1730s were buried at Tewkesbury and when his daughter Ann (1728- ) married Robert Rich of Bristol at Tewkesbury in 1749 the residence of William Hartland senior was given as Tewkesbury (Gloucester & Wilts QM Marriages and Burials Digests).
- 2 Hereford Worcester & Wales QM Marriages Digest, which records the marriage on 10.iv.[June] 1744 of William Hartland of Tewkesbury and Elizabeth Oliver, daughter of widow Oliver of Worcester. The marriage took place at Worcester or nearby (entries in the Digest differ). The children of the marriage are given as follows in Gloucester & Wilts QM Births and Burials Digests:

Hester	b 25.ii[April] 1745	d 4.vii.[Sept] 1747
William	b 22.ix.[Nov] 1746	d 29.ix.[Nov] 1746

The burial of Elizabeth Hartland is recorded only as taking place on 2.x.[Dec] 174x, but must presumably have taken place between 1746 and 1749 (Gloucester & Wilts QM Burials Digest).
- 3 The marriage is not traced in Gloucester & Wilts QM, Hereford Worcester & Wales QM, Bristol & Somerset QM, Warwickshire Leicester & Rutland QM or Cheshire & Staffs QM Marriages Digests; the births of children are not recorded in Gloucester & Wilts QM Births or Burials Digests. At his marriage, however, Nathaniel Hartland was described as the son of William Hartland, tanner, deceased, of Tewkesbury, and his wife Sarah, him surviving; this was in 1780.
- 4 Gloucester & Wilts QM Burials Digest, where no description of him is given; Sarah Hartland is described as widow of William, tanner, of Tewkesbury, at her death in 1782; and see n 3 above.

HARTLEY, Edward (1852-1911)

Edward Hartley, the son of a Primitive Methodist local preacher, was born 28 March 1852 in West Houghton, a Lancaster mining village. Because his parents were poor he had a scanty education and began work in a coal pit when quite young.

In early manhood, he left the Methodists and joined the Society of Friends. At the age of 30 he removed to Manchester and soon afterwards settled in Oldham where he was a valued member of the Meeting, being an Overseer for eight years.

His service was of a humble character but all he undertook was characterised by whole hearted faithfulness to duty. He took no vocal part in the ordinary Meeting for Worship but he often found acceptable service in the Mission Meetings; his utterances being marked by a directness of fervour and deep conviction. His work for Temperance led him to be an active worker for the Band of Hope Union in the district.

From 1894 until his death he was superintendent of the children's Sunday School and this was his special line of service.

The terrible disaster of Hulton Colliery in 1910 brought great sorrow to his family, several of them being victims in the disaster. His brother received the Edward Medal of bravery on this occasion.

He died 10 March 1911 when only 59, a man of strict integrity, a devoted husband and father. He is numbered among those who have overcome, 'If any will, be chief among you, let him be your servant.'

HARTLEY, Margaret (1714/5 or 1715/6-1778) born King

Margaret King, who was probably the daughter of Lawrence King (-1724 qv) of Broughton Meeting in Yorkshire, was born on 12.1.1715 (i.e. probably March 1714/5 but possibly March 1715/6)(1). She was married in 1738 to Jonathan Hartley(2) and there were two children(3).

She appeared in the ministry when she was about twenty three and "was an acceptable & fervent Labourer in the work of the Ministry, & travelled thro' various parts of this Nation, Scotland and Ireland. Zealous in her Testimony against the inordinate Love of the World, affectionately tender to the youth, and much concerned for their preservation."

She died on 9 April 1778, aged about sixty three(4).

Mary Hartley was born near Kendal/ in 1881, the second child of William and Sarah Hartley, of Hagg Foot, Nr. Kendal/.(1)

She attended Ackworth School from 1892 - 1896 and the Mount for three years from 1896 - 1899. She then went on to Birmingham University where she gained a B.A. degree and to Edinburgh for a Cambridge Teacher Training Certificate. Her teaching career began at The Mount where she taught latin from 1906 - 1913, and she was then appointed as Headmistress of the Girls' side at Ackworth from 1913 - 1936. She was a pioneer in planning and conducting sixth form educational holidays in various parts of Europe.

In 1936 she retired early and moved to London, where she joined Hampstead Meeting,(2) and after the second world war she worked in the Friends Relief Service as an administrator, visiting the teams working in Germany. In 1947 she returned from London to Kendal/ where she made her home for the rest of her life.(3)

She served for many years on the York Schools Committee and was a member of the Association of Headmistresses. Her service for the Society of Friends included long periods on Meeting for Sufferings, Friends Service Council, Friends Education Council and on other committees.(4)

As a greatly loved elder of Kendal/ Meeting her ministry was wise and helpful and her ability to listen and to give sound advice was of great value to those with whom she came into contact.

She died at her home in Kendal/ after a very brief illness on February 13, 1975 aged 74.

HARTSHORNE, Anna Cope, 1860-1957.

b. January 8, 1860, d<sup>m</sup> Henry and Mary Elizabeth Brown Hartshorne in Germantown, Phila. Penna.

Ed. Germantown Friends School; took entrance examination to Bryn Mawr(1885) and Harvard(1888) with distinction; attended neither.

In 1894?*
In 1895 accompanied her father Henry Hartshorne, a well-known Doctor and teacher(at Haverford Col. and Univ. of Penna.) when he returned on a second visit to teach and act as a Medical Missionary. Remaining after his death in 1897, and made Japan her home for the rest of her active life, returning to Phila. as storms gathered in East in 1940 at age of 80. While in Japan the friend of, and some-time secretary to D. Inazo Ota Nitobe(below).

A teacher at Peeress's School in Tokyo she met Umeko Tsuda Professor of English there(Bryn Mawr educated) and was able to play a significant role in the founding and development (now College) of Tsuda's life time project, Tsuda Girls English School(1900). A longtime teacher in the school, she helped to select students and raise money in the United States for it, especially after the disastrous earthquake in 1920's. She secured foreign teaching staff and looked after their welfare serving throughout as a Trustee of the School(College).

Though so long absent, a large group attended a Memorial Service for her November 3, 1957. Buried at Southwestern Burial Ground, October 4, 1957, Section B-201, Grave 1. (EPB from FHL 15101)

Anna Cope Hartshorne (1860-1957) and her parents were members of Philadelphia Monthly Meeting for the Western District (also known as 12th Street Meeting). Her parents, Henry Hartshorne and Mary E. Brown, were married under the care of Philadelphia Monthly Meeting in 1849. Philadelphia Monthly Meeting was Mary's home meeting, and in 1852, she transferred her membership to the Western District.

The family briefly transferred to Scipio Monthly Meeting in New York State when her father, Henry Hartshorne, became president of the Howland School in Union Spring, NY (1876-1881). They returned on certificate to Philadelphia Monthly Meeting for the Western District in 1880. Her father taught in Japan 1893-1897.

Membership in the 12th Street Meeting was transferred to the newly created Central Philadelphia Monthly Meeting at the time of the reunification of Philadelphia Yearly Meeting in 1955, so officially Anna Hartshorne was a member of Central Philadelphia MM at her death. However, she is recorded as a member in the final Philadelphia Monthly Meeting for the Western District membership book, 1912-1963, and her death is recorded in that book.

At the time of her death, she apparently was living in a nursing home in Plymouth Meeting, Pa., and may have previously lived in Germantown, Pa. Her death was noted in the Germantown Friends Meeting newsletter.

She was buried in the Friends Southwestern Burial Ground in Upper Darby, Pa., which is just outside the City of Philadelphia.
(Literally-- it's just across the street.)

So, except for the brief transfer to Scipio Monthly Meeting in her late teens, Anna Hartshorne seems to have been a life long member of Philadelphia Monthly Meeting for the Western District (12th Street Meeting) although she spent much of her life in Japan, until WWII.

HARVEY, Anna Maria (1851-1934) born Whiting

Anna Maria Harvey, daughter of John and Anne Rebecca Whiting, was born in Leeds 20 May 1851. After school days at The Mount she visited France as companion to Robert and Christine Alsop and saw the miseries there following the 1870-71 war. In later years she did much for Belgian refugees in this country.

In 1873 she married William Harvey, a happy partnership which lasted 55 years. Although she had a large family, she made her home a centre of wide hospitality. Her time and thought were given to visiting the sick in their homes and hospital; building up the Adult School, the Y.W.C.A., the British Women's Temperance Society and the cause of Peace.

She was a valued Elder, humble and friendly, one whose very presence with her deep devotion helped the Meeting as much as her vocal ministry.

She died 6 September 1934.

HARVEY, Elizabeth (1685-1755) formerly Hunt, formerly Payne, born
~~(WOOLMAN)~~ PAYNE, HUNT, HARVEY, Elizabeth (1685-1755) Woolman

Daughter of John and Elizabeth (Borton) Woolman. Born in Northampton Township 3mo. (May) 15, 1685. She was married at the age of 18 to Nathaniel Payne ( -1707) of Mansfield, N.J. son of John 'Paine' of Willingboro', Burlington Co. 9mo (Nov.) 16, 1703. He was a man of property, and probably some years older than Elizabeth Woolman. Thomas Scattergood, Jr. sold to Nathaniel Payne, Yeoman, one hundred acres of land 'on the south side of Rancocas River', June 6, 1696. (Surveyed for T.S. by Symon Charles, 2mo. (Feb.) 1691. N.J. Archives Vol. XXI, pp. 375, 485) The Will of N. Payne was proved May 26, 1707. His wife Elizabeth is made sole heiress, and he mentions but does not name, 'children under age.' His plantation is at 'Mount Pleasant.' The condemnation paper of N. Payne for 'paying to ye Military Act' was 'red in ye Mt'g' 4 of ye 9mo. (November) 1706.' He does not appear to have been a very strict member of the Society of Friends. (Burlington MM Records. Minutes, Vol. I p.263)

Upon the death of her husband Elizabeth Woolman Payne, then but twenty two years of age, promptly married Robert Hunt, also of Mansfield, 'at Northampton Meeting House' 4mo. (June) 15, 1708. (Burlington Records. Vol I p. 291, B'k A. p.11) Of the family who sign the certificate, there are present William, Sarah, and Margaret Hunt, John and Elizabeth Woolman, Sarah Haines John and Ann Borton, and thirty five others. They had at least four children. 1. Robert Jr., born 1709, mar. Abigail Wood, and had a son John Hunt, (1740-1824) who became the well known minister, and kept an interesting Journal, (Comly's 'Fr'ds Miscellany,' Vol. X) which has been quoted. He was an intimate younger cousin of William Hunt and John Woolman. 2. John, born 1711, died 1729. 3. Elizabeth, born 1713, died 1733. Mar. Francis Ellis Jr. 2mo. 18, 1733, & died in same year, leaving a son. 4. Samuel Hunt, born 1715. Robert Hunt was a very consistent member of the Society of Friends and his name is in the list of members of Burlington Monthly Meeting who in 11mo; (January) 1704 claim exemption from fighting. (MM Recs. Vol.I, p.227.)

The estate of Robert Hunt, April 10, 1716 was administered by his wife, and the inventory of personal property by Wm. Pancoast and Thos. Potts, is placed at £150, including seventy bushels of wheat at £16,10. (N.J. Archives Vol.XXXII, p.248. Deed Book, II, p.64)
Two years later, the Burlington Records show that 'John Harvey and Elizabeth Hunt declare their intestions of marriage, 'ye 8th day of ye 8th month, 1718.' On the third of the next month.....they were left to their Liberty to Solemnize their intended Marriage when they shall see Meet to, Save onely that the said Elizabeth take Care to Secure what belong to ye Children of her former Husband Viz. Robert Hunt, and ye Meeting app. Joshua Fretwell & Thos Scattergood to assist ye said Elizabeth to accomplish ye same before Marriage with John Harvey.' (Burl. MM Vol.1 p.375.)
John and Elizabeth Harvey had five children, - Mary b. 1719; 2. Peter (1721-1771); 3. John Jr. 1724; 4. Sarah ; 5. Job . Peter Harvey became a well known minister in his own neighborhood, and his cousin John Woolman wrote the 'testimony' on his death, which has often been published. John Harvey, Sr was an elder. His death occurred 7mo. 5, 1754. Elizabeth Harvey, who had long been an acceptable preacher, died at Mansfield 3mo. 27th 1755. Of her John Smith wrote, 'She was wife of John Harvey of Mansfield, in the county of Burlington, New Jersey, and daughter of John Woolman, of said County. An honest circumspect woman, and a recommended minister for many years.' (Manuscript 'Lives of Ministers of the Gospel among the People called Quakers', p.135. At Haverford College 'The Friend', Phila. Biog. Notices, Vol. XXXI).
John Woolman's 'testimony' to Peter Harvey is as follows:

Peter Harvey departed this life 1771, he stood as an Elder.....years and as he increased in years I believe his experience of the Sanctifying power of Truth was enlarged.

[In the time of his health a few months before he departed, I had some loving conversation with him in regard to sundry things in his possession relating to his living, which appear'd to be conformable to the Spirit of this world.

He appear'd to take my visit very kind, and though he was not fully settled in his mind as to what he should do with them, yet he told me that he was inwardly united to a plain way of living, and to such who in faithfulness walked therein] I was twice with him in his last Sickness and the first of these times he told me that in his youthful years his mind was much on improvement in outward business, and that being Successful, many spoke in praise of his conduct, and in this prosperity he got Sundry sorts of Superfluities in workmanship about him and though he had not see n clearly what to do with them; yet he saw that at the time of geting these things he want on in the dark, and they were latterly a burden to his mind.

He appeared in a meek and loving frame of spirit, both times when I saw him, and told me the last of these times that he had felt a living sence of divine love on his heart many times in this his Sickness, and had tasted of that joy which is the everlasting portion of them who are Sanctified, and that the thoughts of death were not terrible to him.

John Woolman

Peter Harvey was born in 1721, thus being one year younger than John Woolman. He died 10mo. 9, 1771, aged fifty years.

HARVEY, John Wilfred (1889-1967)

John W. Harvey was born at Headingley, Leeds, on 16 February 1889, the youngest of the seven surviving children of William and Anna Maria (born Whiting, 1851-1934, qv) Harvey. After education at Bootham, Rugby and Oxford he entered academic life as a lecturer in philosophy at Birmingham; but the 1914-1918 war took him away to relief work overseas with the Serbian Relief Fund Mission in Corsica, and with the Friends Ambulance Unit in France.

After the war he returned to Birmingham University, and was appointed to represent it on the governing body of the first girls' secondary school in Smethwick. It was there he met the young headmistress, Phyllis Mabel Bishop, whom he married in 1924 (1). There were no children (2).

He left Birmingham to become Professor of Philosophy, first at Newcastle, then in 1932, in Leeds. He remained at Leeds University until his retirement in 1954, and was its Pro-Vice-Chancellor in 1953-1954.

It was in Leeds that he served for sixteen years as chairman of the International Voluntary Service for Peace, and afterwards until his death as president. He was active in Leeds in the Liberal Federation, and in the Council for Christians and Jews.

He served the Society of Friends in the Roundhay Meeting (Leeds) and on the Church Government Revision Committee; he also served on the Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust. He was on the school committees of Friends' Schools and on those of a wider selection. He was a trustee of The Friend from 1923 until his death. He gave the Swarthmore lecture in 1947. He died on 10 November 1967.

HARVEY, Sarah Grace (1813-1894) born Fryer

Sarah Grace Fryer was born near Brighouse in the year 1813, the daughter of Joseph and Ann Fryer. In 1845 she married Thomas Harvey, of Leeds, and for nearly forty years she shared in all his interests, giving him up for long absences in the service of the Church and in the Anti-Slavery cause.

She was recorded a minister by Brighouse Monthly Meeting in 1857, and was a regular attender of all our meetings and of the Yearly Meeting. At the time of the cotton famine Sarah G. Harvey in company with Margaret Atkinson visited some of the towns in Lancashire, to comfort and cheer the women.

On the death of her husband Sarah G. Harvey made her home with her son and his family, removing with them to Ilkley, where she spent the last two years of her life.

'It was with much fear and trembling that S.G.Harvey first spoke in our meetings for worship in Leeds. Her addresses were full of the love and gentleness of Christ, and a winning influence accompanied them as she earnestly invited sinners to come to Him.'

Thomas Harvey was born at Barnsley in 1812, the second son of William and Susanna Harvey. He was educated at Ackworth and York, and spent several years at Birmingham training as a chemist. Here he came under the influence of Joseph Sturge.

He joined Brighouse Monthly Meeting about the year 1838, on starting business in Leeds; he was appointed an Elder in 1849, and recorded as a minister in 1868. In both these capacities he travelled widely in the service of the Society, visiting the West Indies, Finland, South Russia and Canada, as well as many meetings in England and Ireland. He retired from business at the age of 52, in order to devote himself more fully to religious and philanthropic work.

'Thomas Harvey's labours in the ministry were frequently in the form of Gospel exposition and were felt to be the utterances of a mind well taught in the things of God, sincerely concerned to promote true faith in Christ, and richly acquainted not only with the New, but also with the Old Testament Scriptures.'

He died on 25 December 1884

HARVEY, Thomas Edmund (1875-1955)

T. Edmund Harvey was born on 4 January 1875, the eldest son of William and Anna Maria Harvey of Leeds. He was educated at Beetham School, the Yorkshire College, Christ Church, Oxford, and the Universities of Berlin and Paris.

In early manhood he was a member of the Louden County Council and Stephey Borough Council; he was M.P. for West Leeds 1910-1918, for Dewsbury 1923-1924, and for the Combined Universities 1937-1945. From 1904-1911 he was deputy warden, then warden, of Teynbee Hall. He was for a time warden of Swarthmore Settlement, Leeds, and for many years chairman of its council.

In 1911 he married Alice Irene Thompson, youngest daughter of Silvanus P. Thompson, and with her he gave constant personal concern during their residence in Leeds to the Orphan Homes at Headingley. He was also a regular visitor to prisoners in Armley Gaol.

His ministry was profound yet simple and in vocal prayer he excelled. He was regular in his attendance at ~~his~~ business meetings and he had a great regard for proper procedure. He was clerk of Yorkshire Q.M. from 1927 until 1929.

He had a sense of continuity with the past which made him cherish old books, and the disused meeting houses and burial grounds of the Society. His literary work was considerable, his best-known works being The rise of the Quakers and Aelred of Rievaulx.

He died on 3 May 1955 aged 80 years.

HARWOOD, Frank ( 1919 - 1976 )

Frank Harwood was born in the meeting house cottage at Thirsk on January 30, 1919, the son of Frank and Catherine Harwood.(1)

He was educated at Darlington Grammar School and on leaving school entered the service of the railways. On the outbreak of the second world war he joined Friends Ambulance Units and served in the eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East, particularly involved in the care of refugees. After the war he continued to work in the field of social service, caring for children in residential establishments during which time he met his wife Joyce. After their marriage they continued to work together and then he moved into the area of administration and was appointed in the mid-sixties area children's officer in Hemel Hempstead. Later he moved to Berkhamstead (2) and in 1971 was appointed the first divisional social services officer for West Herts in the new county social services department. There he gained the unqualified respect of all who worked with him for his caring and diplomatic qualities and his quiet integrity.

He was also clerk to Berkhamstead meeting for some years and a member of Sibford School committee.

He died on October 13, 1976 at the age of 57.

HARWOOD, John

John Harwood was a Yorkshire man, according to George Whitehead who was a companion with him in labour and suffering in East Anglia in 1655 and 1656. Of his apostacy, Whitehead writes, 'Within three or four Years after we were released [from Bury Gaol] he came to Loss by proceeding disorderly with a Widow toward Marriage, but was disappointed: And what added to his Hurt, he conceived Prejudice against some of the Brethren, as G. Fox, Sanior, and others, for disowning his irregular and unwarrantable Procedure' (Christian Progress, 1725 p.98, cp. pp. 65-69). Several Friends living in the Holderness district of Yorkshire wrote, in 1663, a letter of warning respecting Harwood, To Friends of Truth in London or elsewhere. They say that they never felt great satisfaction with his services but that then they looked upon him 'to be desparately wicked', having seen his 'deceitfull, false, and scandalous Paper', which was, doubtless, To all People That profess the Eternal Truth of the Living God... cause why I... deny the authority of George Fox, 1663 (copy in British Museum, with MS notes). To this Fox replied in The Spirit of Envy... made Manifest. In a letter dated 1664 (given in Smith's Steven Crisp 1892) a report is noted that 'J.H. [identified by the author of this book as John Harwood] is like to go back to the Church of England.

HARWOOD, Joseph (1712-1776)

Joseph Harwood was born at Bolton in the Moors in the county of Lancashire in the year 1712.(1) His parents were members of the Church of England and he was educated in its beliefs and principles, but his father died when he was about twelve or fourteen years old. About the year 1731, at the age of nineteen, he joined the army, seeing active service in Flanders and acquitted himself with credit and fidelity. But he had a searching, inquiring mind and was interested in religion and some time before he left the army in 1746 he made trial of several kinds of religious faith; at one time he attended Roman Catholic services and when he became dissatisfied with them he attended a meeting held by Methodists, with whom he remained for some time.(2) Finally, however, he met a member of the Society who interested him in George Fox's experiences and from that time onwards he drew steadily closer to Quakerism, until he "became fully convinced of the Principles we profess, in consequence of which after much suffering, and deep Exercise of Soul, he refused to bear Arms any longer, he was thereupon tried by a Court Martial, who treated him with great Moderation and Civility, attending to the remarks he made in a very solemn manner and Transmitted the Minutes of his Trial to the King; who at the Intercession of some Friends granted his discharge, after about six months Imprisonment."

Not long after his discharge, having been received into membership of the Society, he went to live in Manchester and in 1752 he appeared in the ministry; "his Testimony tho' not often large, was sound & Edifying, his Conduct in a singular manner cheerful and his deportment meek & inoffensive, which rendered him dear to us, and his Company & Conversation acceptable to most who knew him of various religious professions." He visited Friends in Ireland in company with Matthew Mellor, journeyed three times to Scotland and travelled in many parts of England; he was careful not to entangle himself in the cares of this life and his ministry was always acceptable. Although he was afflicted with asthma he was a regular attender at his own meeting.

at Manchester

He died apparently unmarried(3) on 12 January 1776(4), after a long illness; he was in the sixty fourth year of his age and the twenty fifth of his ministry.

HASLAM, Fred ( 1897? - 1979 )

Fred Haslam was born in Lancashire in about the year 1897.(1) He served in Friends Relief work in London and in Vienna and then joined his family in Canada in 1921.

In Canada he helped to establish the Canadian Friends Service Committee and was its first secretary from 1931 to 1956. Through this work he contributed to the coming together in 1955 of three separate yearly meetings and was secretary/treasurer of the united meeting from 1960 to 1972.

After his retirement he continued the very necessary work of visiting Friends and meetings in isolation across Canada but also travelled abroad for F.W.C.C., representing the Canadian Council of Churches at the World Council of Churches Assembly at Upsala in 1968 also. In that year he also held a Fellowship at Woodbrooke and he visited Woodbrooke again in 1973, also visiting at that time London Y.M.

He died on October 16, 1979 aged 82.

HASLAM, John (1690-1773)

Of Handsworth Woodhouse, Yorkshire. Born 1690, died 1773, at the age of eighty three. A preacher for fifty seven years. In company with Edmund Peckover, Samuel Hopwood, Eleazar Sheldon and Christopher Wilson, he came to America on a religious visit in 1742, and going hastily from New York, where they landed "16th day of the 7th. month" (September), they succeeded in reaching Burlington, New Jersey in time for the Yearly Meeting then just begun. Here no doubt he first met John Woolman, a serious youth of twenty two, not yet 'recommehded' to the ministry, which occurred the next year. John Haslam, in poor health, was unable to travel south with Edmund Peckover, who went direct to Maryland; but retired to Haddonfield, where he made his home during the following winter with Elizabeth Estaugh, visiting Friends in the Jerseys and Pennsylvania at the time that John Estaugh was making his visit to Tortola, from which he never returned.

John Haslam made one preaching tour on the continent of Europe, and two visits to Ireland. See letter of John Woolman dated from the home of John Haslam, 1772. (cf. "Piety Promoted" pt. IX. Bowden, Hist. Fr'ds in Amer. II p. 243. Journal, Fr'ds Hist. Soc. London, Vol.I.) Daniel Stanton visited John Haslam in 1749, and held a meeting at his house. "A dear Friend," he writes, "who had been very acceptable in his religious visits to Friends in America, and had visited the churches, to the great comfort of the faithful; his agreeable company at his own house received our fresh unity in pur& and lasting Friendship" &c. [Friends' Library XII. p.159.]

HASLAM, Thomas Joseph (1825-1917)

Thomas Joseph Haslam was born at Mountmellick, Queen's County, in 1825 and was educated at the Friends School there, staying five years. On leaving in 1840 he became a pupil-teacher at Lisburn School, and in 1846 obtained a post at Ackworth, in charge of the sixth class. The following year he held temporarily the post of master on duty, at a time when the administration of the School was in a state of considerable disorder. In his history of the School Henry Thompson writes: 'T.J. Haslam, by his resolute will and keen sense of order and obedience, converted a tangle of confusion into a perfect machine'. After a short period at Ackworth he gave up teaching and returned to Ireland to take up a business career.

In 1854 he married Anna Maria Fisher of Youghal, whom he had met on the staff at Ackworth. They lived first in Clonmel, but later moved to Dublin, which was their home for the rest of their lives. When ill-health compelled him to give up business Thomas Haslam took up writing, chiefly on literary subjects. His best known book was Good English for beginners (1892). He frequently lectured in the Friends Institute at Dublin.

Thomas Haslam and his wife celebrated their golden wedding in 1904. They had both given up their membership of the Society of Friends but continued to take an interest in its work.

Thomas Haslam died on 30 January 1917, aged 91.

Gerrard van Hasson was born in Holland and joined Friends at the age of 40 after he became convinced after years of 'unregeneracy and sin'.

He received the gift of ministry in England, and in 1737 went over to Ireland where he lived in Dublin for the rest of his life.

He travelled in the ministry both in England and in Ireland. In 1747 he visited families of Friends in Ireland, both those who were 'in Unity and those who by their misconduct had justly incurred the censure of the Society'. This duty he carried out helpfully, being as he was 'a man of extensive charity'. He was a fervent and zealous worker, had an affectionate and tender regard for young people, and spoke to parents and employers of the need for religious training of the children and young people in their care. He suffered much from ill-health which hindered him from rendering much public service.

And soe Tempted us beinge yt wee were yonge and easy to be drawn'. This Testimony of Denial they were to 'read at Markett & to the Preist that Tempted' them, and 'tell him your selves that you owne it to bee true', before the Meeting would receive them again. HATTERSLEY, Thomas (1819?-1843)

Thomas Hattersley, details of whose birth and parentage are not at present (1975) traced, was born about the year 1819(1). After he left school he became a schoolmaster and taught for three years at York School. He was diffident, with retiring manners which did not at first commend him to his pupils, but a better knowledge of his upright character and true concern for their welfare won him their lasting esteem and regard.

Early in 1843 he had an attack of influenza, from which he partially recovered, but it left behind the first traces of the pulmonary disease from which he eventually died. To the concern of his scholars he was obliged to retire to the house of his brother-in-law at Handsworth Woodhouse, where he died on 16 July 1843(2), at the age of twenty four.

HAUGHTON, Amy ( 1881 - 1965 )

Amy Haughton was born in 1881.(1) One of her ancestors had married out of the Society and the family had not returned to membership but she was brought up aware of her Quaker inheritance. She graduated in history from Manchester University and taught history first at Woolwich Polytechnic and later at the Kings Warren Grammar School for Girls at Plumstead where she taught for nineteen years until she retired in 1932. She was a strong pacifist in the face of local opposition in Woolwich. She formed within her school a junior branch of the League of Nations Union and she had a great interest in and influence upon her pupils. Under the pen name of Margaret Skelton she wrote two novels 'The Book of Youth' anticipating the change to come in the mental, moral and political status of women and 'Below the Watch Towers' being a plea for peace and disarmament. The latter was highly praised and widely acclaimed.

In 1933, after retiring for health reasons she moved to Welwyn Garden City and at about this time she joined the Society of Friends.(2) She continued her work for peace and when the second world war came she organised at the meeting house the reception and placing of evacuees. A community of refugees reached Welwyn Garden City and she began her teaching again helping the refugees to learn English and to understand their new way of life. She was kindly and helpful to all.

She was clerk at Welwyn Garden City (3) and then in 1947 she moved to Hampstead where she became a member of Friends central committees.(4) She was an overseer of Hampstead meeting. She had also been a member of the Women's International League for many years and for a time was editor of its news sheet.

She died on March 20, 1965 at The Retreat, York, aged 83.

HAUGHTON, Anne (1828-1909) born Waring

Anne Waring was the third daughter of Joseph and Anne Waring of Ballinclay (Co. Wexford), and was born in 1828. She was sent to a private school at Croydon at the age of 17, and after her marriage in 1852 to Jonathan Haughton (1829-1909, qv) of Ferns (also Co. Wexford) settled at Rockspring, near her husband's birthplace, moving in about 1900 a short distance to Sweetfarm, Enniscorthy, Anne Haughton was gifted with a temperament of 'extraordinary brightness and elasticity' and was endowed with great courage in facing difficulties. Busy as she was, she took into her own home on three occasions very young children whose mothers were too ill to care for them properly, and the house at Rockspring was freely open to all visitors, both relatives and others. She was a 'constant helper of the poor and the sick', and was especially welcomed in houses of mourning. Despite all this activity, however, she never gave the impression of being overworked, and 'one of her chief attractions lay in the freshness and breeziness of her manner and conversation'. She was an excellent mimic and had a great love of innocent fun.

Her health had been failing during 1909, and although her condition had become somewhat better shortly before the end, she died suddenly on 23 October 1909, being survived by eleven of her twelve children (the youngest having died in infancy) and by seventeen grandchildren. She was buried at Ballinclay.

HAUGHTON, Jonathan (1829-1909)

Jonathan Haughton was born in Ferns (Co. Wexford) in December 1829, the eldest son of Joseph and Abigail Haughton, and attended Mountmellick School. He was first apprenticed to a grocery business in Dublin, but after seven years returned to Ferns. In 1852 he married Anne Waring (1828-1909, qv) and they had 12 children, of whom all but the youngest survived. After his marriage he settled as a farmer at Rockspring, near Ferns, but spent the last nine years of his life at Sweetfarm, Enniscorthy, some miles south of Ferns.

Jonathan was for thirty years a Poor Law Guardian and became a Land Commissioner in about 1882. In this capacity he was widely known and revered throughout the south and west of Ireland, while as a magistrate he was held in high esteem by his fellow occupants of the bench. He was always ready to help those in trouble, and was frequently called upon to act as an arbitrator in family and other disputes.

He was well known for nearly sixty years at Dublin Yearly Meeting, and was a regular attender of his own Meeting, of which he was an Elder. He did not take very great part in vocal ministry, but it was rather through 'the kindly deeds of his daily life' that he showed his Christianity, possessing a 'great power of drawing together and uniting those amongst whom he lived, and of creating around him an atmosphere of friendship and good will'.

He was throughout his life subject to illness, and despite a recovery after the death of his wife he died suddenly on 18 November 1909, only three weeks after Anne Haughton.
