

Introduction

In thus isolating Friends from the large body of professing Christians, the compiler actuated by no narrow or sectarian bias. Since, however, it would be a stupendous task to make a general list of all astounding Christians, the less ambitious role has been attempted of selecting members of the Society of Friends, called Quakers, who whether in religion, education, science, art or industry have also made an outstanding contribution to life. Beyond this he has included names of some who have fallen away from first principles, have even made shipwreck of faith. It has seemed right to include others who appear to have been Friends at heart but who (as if were by accident) never became members.

The difficulty of decision as to whom to include and whom to omit has been very great. Some other compiler, with a different setting and outlook, would undoubtedly have produced a very different copy. It is hoped, nonetheless, that the Dictionary will prove helpful to students of history, to genealogists and to seekers after truth.

That regrettable misstatements, inaccuracies and omissions occur in this work must be admitted. Accordingly, corrections and suggestions will be welcomed. May the whole compilation serve as a broad target to shoot at, so that eventually a sound and comprehensive work may evolve, to the permanent enrichment of Christian biography.

DICTIONARY
BIOGRAPHY

Introduction.

In thus isolating Friends from the
the largest body of professing Christians, the compiler ~~is~~ has been actuated by no narrow or sectarian bias. Since, however, it would be a stupendous task to ~~list~~ make a general list of all outstanding Christians, ~~it~~ has been attempted the less ambitious ~~task~~ of selecting members of the Society of Friends, called Quakers, who,
whether in religion, ^{education,} science, art or industry, have made ~~an~~ outstanding contribution to life. ^{Beyond} ~~Beyond~~ ^{Further than} this, he has included names of some, who having fallen away from first principles, ~~and~~ have even made shipwreck of faith. Also, it has seemed right ~~to~~ to include others, who appear to have been Friends at heart, ~~though~~ by ~~accident~~ ~~it~~
~~indeed~~ never became members.

The difficulty of decision as to whom to include, and whom to omit, has been very great. Some other compiler, with a different setting and outlook, would undoubtedly have produced a very different copy.

none-the-less (2)

It is hoped, that the Dictionary will prove helpful to students of history, to genealogists, and to seekers after ~~truth~~ ^{Truth}.
Regrettable that misstatements, inaccuracies and omissions occur in this work must be admitted. Accordingly corrections and suggestions will be ~~solicited~~ welcomed. It is hoped all ^{will} compilation ~~work~~ ^{May} the whole ~~work~~ serve as a broad target to shoot at, ^{so that} eventually a sound and comprehensive ~~volume~~ ^{work} may evolve, to the permanent enrichment of Christian biography.

ABBATT, Dilworth (1861-1942)

Dilworth Abbatt, son of Jonathan and Mary Abbatt, was born at Preston on 19 December 1861 (1). He was at Ackworth School from 1874 to 1877. After leaving school he entered his father's business as a boot and shoe dealer (2). He married in 1894 Mary Ann Enock (3); they had two children (4). His wife died in 1921, and in 1925 he married Alice Maud Blackledge (5).

In early life he was a keen penny-farthing cyclist, and his interests included the Preston Scientific Society. He was particularly interested in local history and contributed articles to the local press. His Quaker researches found expression in his book, Quaker annals of Preston and the Fylde (1931).

Dilworth Abbatt retired from business in 1935. He died, after about a year's illness, on 17 September 1942, aged 80 years.

ABBATT, Edward (1860-~~1940~~) ~~100~~

Edward Abbatt was born 2 March 1860 (1), the third son of William and Ann Abbatt, of Bolton, Lancashire. After leaving Bootham he entered his father's business of cane and skip manufacturer, and engaged in Sunday School and Temperance work. He and his wife presided over a Bible Class at the YWCA.

His first wife, Jane Baxter, died young, and left him three small children (2). During an extended illness, he learned to knit and made many articles for F.S.C. sales. In 1928, he retired from business and went to live at Colwyn Bay, where he engaged in Bible study, reading and country walks, and became an Elder in the Meeting. After injury while watching a cricket match, he died on 20 December 1939, at Colwyn Bay.

ABBATT, George William (1858-1931)

George William Abbatt was born 23 September 1858 (1). 'For years he and his brother, Edward Abbatt, with their wives and families, formed the backbone of Bolton meeting, and in the passing of George William Abbatt the Society in general, and the League of Nations and Temperance causes in particular have lost an ardent worker.' He died 22 November 1931 (2).

ABBATT, James (1831-1895)

James Abbatt, the fourth son of Benjamin and Elizabeth Abbatt of Bolton in Lancashire, was born there on 1 January 1831(1). He was educated at Ackworth School from 1840 to 1845(2) and on leaving school he was for thirty years engaged in business as a woollen draper(3). He relinquished his business about the year 1875, believing that God had called him to devote his whole time to Christian work.

In 1860, during his business career, he married Mary Hannah Lamb of Sibford(4), but the marriage was childless(5). His wife proved a true helpmeet to him in many ways. With her assistance he took charge in 1880 of the newly formed Mission and School at the Pales in Radnorshire and while there he was recorded a minister of the Society in 1884. "His constant study and extensive knowledge of Scripture made him a valuable helper in Bible-class work, which he was always ready to aid, even beyond our own borders." He described the years spent in Radnorshire as being "a very isolated, but a joyous life." He afterwards went to St Ives in Huntingdonshire and later on to Newport in the Isle of Wight, but while at Newport his wife died in 1888(6).

He married again in 1890 Anna Mary Enock of Sibford(7) and lived there for his remaining years, becoming a member of Banbury Meeting. There were no children of his second marriage(8), but he endeared himself to all who came in contact with him and delighted in having his friends around him in his quiet home.

His health began to fail some months before his last illness and he died on 1 March 1895(9), at the age of sixty four.

ABBEATT, Mary (1833-1877)

Mary Abbatt, the daughter of Thomas Abbatt (1803-1844 qv) and his wife Sarah of Egerton in the parish of Bolton in Lancashire, was born there on 1 January 1833(1). She was educated at Ackworth School from 1845 to 1847(2). From early childhood she read her Bible regularly and at Ackworth School her teacher described her as the most conscientious girl she ever knew. She had a humble view of herself, but as she grew in years she grew in grace and soon began to exert an influence for good on those around her.

She was gentle, quiet and retiring but she could, if the occasion demanded, speak out with great boldness and her words, although few, were weighty. She was also a good listener and her loving sympathy gained the confidence of those who came to her for help. She had the most perfect confidence that her business and all belonging to her were in the hands of a loving father and always seemed to bear in mind that she was only a stewardess of the Lord's will.

She suffered for five years from a painful internal disease, which she bore with patience and fortitude. Mary Abbatt of Bolton died on 1 April 1877 at the age of forty four(3).

ABBATT, Walter (1862-1937)

Walter Abbatt was born at Bolton, Lancashire, on 21 December 1862(1) the fourth of five sons of William and Ann Abbatt. He spent two or three years at Ackworth and was at Bootham from 1875-79.

At Bristol, he was for about 25 years in the service of a firm of corn and flour merchants. He was a member of Meetings in Clevedon and Bristol, where in 1904 he married Maud Mary Green. In 1905 they removed to New Barnet and he became secretary and a director of a London firm of factors and shippers.

At New Barnet he and his wife joined with a group of Friends, at first holding occasional meetings at the house of the late Joseph Bevan Braithwaite; Walter Abbatt served as clerk for the minutes of the first Preparative Meeting, and he continued in this office till the end of 1926. For 21 years he was treasurer of Tottenham Monthly Meeting. He continued as Elder and Overseer for the New Barnet Meeting after his wife's death in 1931. 'The steadfast courage with which he faced adversity has been an inspiration to all who knew the circumstances, especially to certain of his Meeting who had somewhat similar (business) difficulties of their own.' He died after a street accident in London on 21 January 1937 (2).

ABBOTT, John (1752-1813)

John Abbott was born on 17 July 1752, a son of Samuel and Hannah Abbott of St Ives in Huntingdonshire, a baker (1). In 1783 he was recorded a minister, and in 1784 he married Ann King, of Barith (1762-1791, qv) (2), and had 4 children (3). In 1785 John Abbott was visiting Friends in Scotland and he was in that country again in 1789. In 1794 he married ~~Sarah~~ Sarah Tregelles (1764-1802, qv), daughter of Joseph and Sarah Tregelles of Falmouth (4), to which place they moved soon after marriage and where one child was born before they took up their residence in Plymouth, where other children were born (5). John Abbott was in Ireland in 1795, and his wife, Sarah, and he in 1800. James Jenkins records that during this visit Sarah Abbott imbibed the rebellious doctrines of the Irish New-Lights. It was reported that John had also indulged in forbidden fruit, but of this charge he thought proper, to make the most public refutation that could be made among his friends'. A third marriage took place in 1806 - with Sarah Wilson (1759-1843, qv), daughter of Isaac and Rachel Wilson of Kendal (6), 'a valuable but eccentric Friend', - 'a beautiful life and saintly character'.

John Abbott travelled much in the ministry. He was particularly severe to those 'who were in the practice of profane swearing'. He paid a religious visit to London in 1812, and on his return home, he suddenly died at Bath, his remains being interred there (7).

ABBOTT, Sarah (1759-1843) born Wilson

Sarah Wilson, was daughter of Isaac (1714/5-1785, qv) and Rachel (1720-1775 born Wilson, qv) Wilson of Kendal, was born there on 15 June 1759 (1).

She was acknowledged a minister in 1794. She married John Abbott (1752-1813, qv) of Plymouth in 1806. (2) She was several times liberated by her monthly meeting with certificates to attend religious meetings in various parts of the country. 'Notwithstanding her eccentricities, she appears to have been a valuable Friend' (3).

She died at Plymouth on 1 July 1843, aged 84 years, a minister for about 40 years (4). Her body was interred in Friends' burial ground, Plymouth.

ABBOTT, Thomas (1886?-1950)

Thomas Abbott was born in 1886? He had been an Attender at Friar Lane Meeting for about 10 years. 'For some reason which he never fully revealed he did not apply for membership, although he was well aware that Friends would have welcomed him wholeheartedly. When asked about it he would say that he was not good enough to be a Quaker, and in saying it he was doubtless quite serious.' Largely due to him the morning Meeting for Worship was kept alive during the war years when Sunday morning transport was non-existent. In Nottingham district he was much concerned with tribunal experiences. He attended Appellate Tribunals in London and Manchester on behalf of many men, collected funds for their maintenance, organised alternative work schemes for them, attended C.B.C.O. headquarters meetings as local representative, and was the mainspring of its activities in the East Midlands. He died 4 February 1950.

ABDELNOOR, Abdelnoor Abdullah el (1853?-1927)

Abdelnoor Abdullah el Abdelnoor was born in 1853? He entered the American University at Beyrouth (then the Syrian Protestant College) in 1867. He took his B.A. in 1871 along with Dr. Beahara J. Manasseh and Lotfallah Riscallah. After his graduation he took service in the American United Presbyterian Mission at Assiut, Upper Egypt, and was there several years, assisting during the summer time in the language teaching of some of the Americans. Thence he went to Ramallah, Palestine, where his two eldest children were born. Then he came north to Lebanon, his home country, to live forty years.

'As a teacher...he has always been a marked man—one whom to know was to love. There were traits in his character which suggested that he had been impressed by and approximated to the simplicity and sterling worth of the early Friends whom he met in Syria. He had the esteem of all, and there was a touch of old-time Quakerism in the quaint English of his letters to us...There was a "sense of direction" about his life, which was evidently so "open-doored to God" that daily response to Divine guidance.' He died at Bhamdoun, Lebanon, on 8 November 1927.

Hodgkin had taken a leading part in this effort and in collecting the necessary funds. But when Dr. Hodgkin and Friends associated with him found that Miss Abraham was on the same quest and was extremely anxious to become the owner of the Hall, they entered into a friendly but rather complicated negotiation with her in order to effect an arrangement satisfactory to both sides.

'The result was that Miss Abraham purchased the property, received a loan from the collected fund on a mortgage of the estate, and by deed entered into an agreement with the Friends who were parties to the mortgage, by which she agreed that they should have an option to purchase the property on the death of the survivor of herself and her nephew, Edward Mitford Abraham, or on receiving the prescribed notice of the desire of Miss Abraham or her representatives or assigns to sell or dispose of it.

'Subsequently a Trust Deed was executed, placing under the direction of the Meeting for Sufferings and a sub-committee of that Meeting the administration of the fund collected for purchasing the property and the exercise of the rights of the trustees under the mortgage and option agreement. The meeting for Sufferings was also empowered to determine how and for what charitable purposes the Swarthmoor Hall Estate is to be held when acquired.'

Doris Absalom was born on July 21, 1902. She was brought up in Portsmouth and trained for teaching and continued to live and teach there until she moved with her parents to Rowlands Castle, but she continued to travel into Portsmouth to school. Her father died in 1933 and after that care for her ailing mother severely restricted her life. In spite of this, in 1934 she took the training for backward children provided by the Central Association for Mental Welfare and continued her work with educationally sub-normal children until appointed first as deputy headmistress of one secondary school and then as headmistress of Hilsea Secondary Modern School. Her mother died in 1951 and later, on her sister's retirement they were able to live together in the family home at Rowlands Castle, but her sister only lived for one year after Doris Absalom's retirement. To help her sister Doris learned to drive much against her own wishes, but she overcame what she thought was a temperamental unsuitability and her car was used for many purposes in connection with the meeting and the many local good causes in which she was interested.

She had contacted Friends in Petersfield probably at about the time of her mother's death but she did not join the Society until about 1959,(1) from which time she was ~~agr~~ a great strength to the small meeting, as an elder and as its clerk for fourteen years.(2) She also served on Meeting for Sufferings.(3)

Doris Absalom also gave service in the town of Petersfield itself, on the Council of Churches and with Christian Aid, Shelter, Family Welfare, the United Nations Association and with the Fellowship of Reconciliation. She also had interests in Portsmouth itself, particularly the Portsmouth Family Welfare Association. In her personal life she was interested in music, gardening, the theatre, old buildings, home baking and preserving and a love for and a detailed observation of nature.

In the last year of her life she was very frail but members of her family did everything possible to keep her in her own home as long as possible. She died on October 28, 1978 aged 76.

ABDALOM, John Knight (1881-1968)

John K. Absalom was born on 14 November 1881. On leaving Sibford Friends School he learnt the trade of a Grocer at Coggeshall in Essex, and until the first world war he worked variously in Weston-super-Mare, Plymouth and Torquay.

In 1915 he joined the Friends Ambulance Unit and worked on Ambulance Trains, often organizing sport and recreation in the Unit. In 1919 he resumed his managerial position with the Goodbody Firm in Plymouth, where he remained until his retirement in 1953. In 1916 or 1917 he married Frances Mary ; they had a son, Harold John (1).

John Absalom involved himself closely with the work of West Devon MM, of which he was Clerk for 15 years, and he helped to found the Educational Settlement called Swarthmore. His service to the Swarthmore Settlement was unbroken; he was its Treasurer for 23 years and for a considerable time the Registrar; he was also Clerk to the Swarthmore Council. In his capacity as Quaker Representative he became President of the Plymouth Free Church Council.

He had a life-long concern and interest in Friends' work. Never allowing personal competition to interfere with good relationships, he is remembered for his steadfastness and staunch reliability, coupled with cheerfulness in any situation and encouragement to all with whom he came in contact.

He died on 23 May 1968.

ADAIR, William (1877?-1958)

William Adair was born in 1877? His early religious training was as a Methodist, where, in the "class system", he discovered his gift of speech, which he later developed as a member of Glasgow Parliamentary Society. He was for long a member of the Adult School, and from this group he gravitated to Friends.

'He was an eager writer of "Letters to the Editor" and took up the cudgels for peace and the testimonies of Friends with all sorts of people. As a conscientious objector in the First World War he took every opportunity of showing his concern and sympathy with the modern conscientious objector in advising and attendance at tribunals.

'The Meeting for Worship was a major concern, and he was conscientious in preparing himself in heart and mind for its service; sensitive as to when to speak and when not to speak. At the Memorial Meeting a former employer paid tribute to his life and character: "As a craftsman tailor, Willie Adair never put a faithless stitch into a garment and he was always eager to help others." Let that be his epitaph. A.M.

ADAMS, John (1674-1731)

John Adams was born, 'of beliewing parents', about the year 1674, and was brought up as a Friend. He became a Minister about his twenty fifth year, and travelled widely in the ministry, visiting Scotland, Holland and Germany; Ireland thrice; and several times Wales and the South and West of England.

'He was a remarkably innocent, peaceable, meek and humble man; which, with sundry other Virtues and qualifications, gained him the esteem both of Friends and Neighbours. In short we may say, he was a Preacher of Righteousness, in Life and Conversation, "as well as Doctrine; and we doubt not but our loss in his exceeding great Gain".

John Adams died 21.vi.[August] 1731, aged about fifty seven years, and a Minister for about thirty two years.

ADAMS, John Till, M.D. (-1786)

A talented young Quaker physician of Bristol, England, whose "early and much-lamented death" was such as to call forth several "Elegies" and stanzas by one or two of his intimates. One of these, anonymously published, was entitled, "An Elegy, sacred to the Memory of that Patron of virtue, the truly admired and pious John Till Adams, M.D. of Bristol, whose Heaven-born soul, leaving its Earthly shrine, fled to its native Home and was received to Rest on Monday, the 20th, day of February, one hour P.M. or Afternoon (1786)."

(Joseph Smith: Catalogue of Friends' Books, Vol.I p.3)
An elaborate monument was erected to his memory in Bristol England.

(The Tills of Whitgreave, Staffordshire, were a very old family. William Till, son of John, came to Pennsylvania in 1700, became prominent in the history of the colony and was Mayor of Philadelphia in 1742. He married Ann Weeden in 1703; died 1711. John Till was the first of the family to join the Quakers, and was sixth in descent from Hugh Tyll of the parish of St. Mary's, Staffordshire. They were known as 'The Tills of Whitgreave'. Hugh Tyll died in 1552. William Till was a warden of Christ Church, Phila, in 1739. [Howard Williams Lloyd. "Lloyd MSS" 19. "Ancestry of Rosalie Morris Johnson".]

Kathleen Adams was born in about the year 1911.(1) She was born in a very poor quarter of Bristol but winning a City Junior Scholarship she progressed to Bristol University and gained a first class honours degree in history, an almost unbelievable achievement for one from her background at that time. While at the university she joined the Student Christian Movement, she was also inclining to pacifism and in addition took up the study of Esperanto. At the classes she met Conrad Gordon Adams whom she later married. They both joined Bristol & Frenchay MM and became strong supporters of their meeting at Frenchay.(2) During the second world war she helped to run the advice bureau for conscientious objectors at Quaker Friars and attended every C.O. tribunal on behalf of the bureau. She and Conrad organised visits to the p.o.w. camp near Frenchay meeting and later arranged for the prisoners to visit their home and other families including non-pacifists. They kept in touch with many and later visited them in Germany.

Later they moved to Bradford on Avon Meeting where she was clerk to the overseers. She was helping to organise the local World Disarmament Campaign door to door petition until the evening of her death. She was a most loving and loyal Friend.

She died suddenly on October 8, 1981 at the age of 70.

ADAMS, Sara (1801-1864)

Sarah Adams was the wife of Thomas Adams, whom she married, probably in London in the 1830s. She returned with him to Southern Ontario. She is said to have worked with Elizabeth Fry in the London prisons in the early part of the century.

Thomas and Sarah Adams are believed to have worked among the Indians for many years.

She died in June 1864

ADAMSON, William

William Adamson was a joint-author of The Persecution of them People They call Quakers in several Places in Lancashire, 1656. There are hints among Swarth. MSS of his service up and down and of the need for a supply of money to defray the cost of his journeys (i.1, 195, 307, iii, 32, iv. 103).

If the above Friends is the same as the Friend who wrote An Answer to a Book, Titled, Quakers Principles Quaking, by Ralph Hall and Zachariah Crofton (Though Smith places this tract under a separat heading in his Cata.), he lived at Liverpool. Of this last-named tract, Thomas Holme, who opened the controversy writes, 'This is to le t thee know that willam Addamsons answer to the book is not yet gone to the presse... Raph Hall must be put down on the titell payge...hee is the arther of the booke, Zach Crofton was but the arther of that to the reeder' (Swarth. MSS.i.198).

Dear Ed:

Actually your letter marks the third time I have attempted to answer the question concerning Jane Addams and the Society of Friends, and my answer does not improve substantially over time. I enclose the best discussion I have found of Addams's religious views late in her life. Also I have seen, but cannot now find, a letter from Addams to William Hull from the early 1920s in which she states that she is not a Friend.

It was good to see you this morning, even though it was very early. Best wishes on your retirement as Haverford Librarian.

Sincerely,

ADDISON, Leonard (-1686)

Leonard Addison lived at Rampside, near Dalton. His wife was Elizabeth. She died in 1680. Addison appears to have gone on preaching tours with Leonard Fell. Letters from them to Margaret Fell written in 1653 from the county of Durham are extant (Swarth. MSS i.113,135). In one she is called 'thou little hill hirmon'. These two and others signed a short paper, entitled The Persecution of them People they call Quakers in Lancashire, c.1656. From the Account Book it appears that he was in the employ of John Kirkby of Coniston Hall and later of Sarah Dodding.

'Addison wife' was probably the same as 'Geo: Addison wife of Ulverstone'.

The minutes of the Monthly Meeting, held in March, 1669/70, refer to the 'disorderly drinkinge & walkinge contrary to truth' of Leonard Addison.
